

USTI robocall mitigation includes limiting access to PBX systems by end users include IP allow listing, username/password combinations requiring complexity requirements, as well as preventative security measures with firewalling, automatically blocking source IPs for brute force login attempts, and voice session border controllers securing connectivity and voice traffic, among others. We also audit for unknown sources of calling traffic by way of internal logging and external SIP voice provider logging.