

Our app Funcalls (<http://www.funcalls.com/>) require the users to register their phone number in order to place phone calls the registration process is working like that:

1. the user enter his phone number
2. our server is sending a call to his number
3. once the call is answered, a code is played to him (codes are valid for 5 minutes)
4. the user enter the code on the application and click verify
5. if correct, the number is assigned to the user and all his calls are using this number as CLID
