

Robot call mitigation

We strongly vet all our clients before signing to get a good picture on what the company we will be providing to does and how they operate, making sure that they are not breaking any laws with there intended use of the system.

In case of a malicious attack or another sudden switch we have flags in place that alert us when someone is making a suspicious amount of calls in a short period of time so we can pause the service and see what is going on.

All calls made on our system have a caller ID present even when calling autonomously so if needed we can trace back specific calls and see who made them and when.
